NORTHWEST DISASTER SEARCH DOGS
APPLICATION QUESTIONNAIRE

Name:

Why do you want to join NDSD?

What special skills can you offer the group?

Working 12-hour shifts at a disaster site can be a long, physically challenging day. What have you done to prepare yourself for this challenge?

During a deployment, all task force members work together on general tasks, such as carrying buckets or cleaning gear, regardless of their job descriptions. This means that your dog may remain crated or tied out for a period of time. How do you feel about this?

Would you allow another NDSD or task force member (that you know) to care for your dog for several hours if you are called away to other duties? Would your dog accept such care?

While working on a task assigned to you by your search team manager, the chief in charge gives you another task. And wants you to do it now! What do you do?

If the board of NDSD determines that your dog is not a suitable candidate for disaster search and rescue either prior to beginning training or during the training process, what are your plans (i.e. get another dog for disaster SAR, find another job to do with your current dog, etc.)?

Are you willing to sign a release and indemnity agreement?
